General Information

Organization Mission Statement

The Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs (MCACA) serves to encourage, develop, and facilitate an enriched environment of artistic, creative and cultural activity in Michigan. Goals: strengthen arts and culture; support arts education; recognize, reflect and celebrate cultural pluralism and broaden cultural understanding; establish and facilitate communications networks; increase visibility and awareness of the arts and culture; encourage new, creative and innovative works of art; and expand and develop funding resources.

Arts Education Program Overview

MCACA's main grant program includes a component designated as Project Support / Education that would fund quality arts education activities conducted by artists of high quality and ability in schools or communities as well as in arts education partnerships between schools and community based organizations. Funded activities may involve collaborations among artists, educators (arts and other disciplines), community arts resources, arts organizations with strong educational programming, arts organizations interested in developing strong educational programming, local businesses, parents, students and the general public.

Eligible projects involve the arts in education activities that take place outside of the general school curriculum. When Arts and Learning Program activity takes place in Michigan's K-12 school environment, it cannot be credit bearing and may not constitute ongoing instruction normally provided by certified educators.

Other recent support of arts education includes a grant program to provide bus funds for school field trips to arts organizations, and funding for the Michigan Humanities Council for their touring arts program/artist residencies and for their administration of Poetry Out Loud.

The council's budget has gone from $26 million to $2.2 million in the past eight years. However, strong partnerships still exist between the Michigan Department of Education's fine arts personnel, Artsserve Michigan (an advocacy organization) and Michigan Youth Arts. These organizations are determined to keep and improve Michigan's art education environment despite ongoing economic challenges.
