Thursday, September 11

Welcome to Chattanooga Celebration

The Hunter Museum of American Art opens its doors, its galleries, its breathtaking views, and invites NASAA to an evening of celebration, Tennessee Style!

Boasting one of the southeast's finest collections of American art, the Hunter is the centerpiece of the Bluff View Art District. Spend the entire evening listening to Tennessee music, savoring southern delicacies, browsing area galleries and touring the Houston Museum of Decorative Art, two sculpture gardens, and play bocce ball. And be sure to take home something truly of Tennessee from the Terrace Craft Fair. (Dress is business casual.)

(No additional fee for conference registrants. Guests $30 U.S. per person)

Saturday, September 13

Assembly 2008 Sundown Git Down and Tennessee Catfish Fry at the First Tennessee Pavilion

Just down the street from the Chattanooga Convention Center the Fiery Gizzard String Band is tuning up, the Flatfoot Dancers are already stretching, and grease is bubbling hot, ready for the catfish and hushpuppies to jump in. You may want to just sit back and enjoy the fixin's, the drinkin', or you may want to join in the flatfootin'. It's your choice, but the evening is just beginning and a NASAA closing party is not complete without a great rock band, a dance floor, and a well-stocked bar. We got'em and a whole lot more! (Dress is casual.)
